The hearing of arguments for the Carondelet and Forest Park proposed World's Fair sites was begun by the site and executive committee Thursday afternoon.

The advocates of each of these sites are confident of winning and will be out in force.

The offer of a $500,000 stock bonus by the Prospect Heights site, Wednesday afternoon, as told in last edition of the Post-Dispatch, had the effect of arousing the Carondelet and Forest Park people to even greater activity than before.

"We will not let the World's Fair management go into any real estate speculation or lottery schemes," said Alex H. Smith of the Carondelet committee, Thursday morning.

"The site we offer is a sufficient bonus in itself, and the difference in gate receipts if the Fair is located in Carondelet will more than offset the money and stock offered by other proposed sites."

The Prospect Heights proposition, made by F. R. Bissell and Harry G. Knapp, is a free site of 600 acres, with a bonus of $500,000 preferred stock in a corporation which is to be organized to handle 500 acres of land immediately adjoining.

The Forest Park people are prepared to offer an absolutely free site of 1100 acres, including the 666 acres in the west end of the park, with such additional land as may be required for the site.

The committee which will present the claims of Carondelet Park is composed of Alex H. Smith, J. F. Karlsfeld, John Becker, Jr., W. M. Kinsey, Taylor Smith, F. W. Mott and J. E. Retallack.

"We have about 600 acres of free site to offer, including 180 acres in Carondelet Park, and nearly 1000 acres in Forest Park, for several additional tracts," said Mr. Smith to the Post-Dispatch. "All that is not offered free can be obtained on easy terms."

The site is admittedly the most beautiful for World's Fair purposes in or around the city. From the river bluffs, which command the Forest Park site, the view of the slopes back in perfect shape for building operations, with scarcely any grading whatever required.

"By connecting the small lakes in the park with the river, a large number of springs can be secured."

"Existing lines of electric lines and river steamers, according to statements furnished by Forest Park people, could carry 325,000 persons a day from the grounds, as follows: Excursion steamers, 125,000; Broadway, California and Grand avenue divisions of Transit company, 125,000.

"These facilities would be greatly increased by the building of additional lines before the Fair."

Forest Park Site
Advocates Confident.

The Forest Park World's Fair Free Site Association will be represented at the hearing by Judge John P. Terry, L. C. Irvine, E. O. Stannard, Norman J. Colman, Capt. L. H. Conn and others.

Mr. Irvine, the secretary of the association, said to the Post-Dispatch Thursday morning:

"We will submit an additional brief in the case of the people vs. syndicate speculation, the same being an argument in favor of Forest Park as the World's Fair site."

"We have felt certain all along that Forest Park would be selected, and today we are more confident than ever."

"We will offer a free site of 1100 acres, consisting of the 666 acres inside the park, 200 acres lying across the Skinker road and comprising the Marritt, De Munn, Buchanan, Skinker and Teason divisions of tract, extending to Pennsylvania avenue; and about 180 acres adjoining the park on the south."

"In addition, the 80 or 100 acres comprised in the Cahill tract can be obtained by condemnation, if it is wanted. The advantage of this tract is that it is already provided with sewer and water mains and ready for building operations."

"It is unnecessary to review the advantages of the Forest Park site. The committee knows more about them than we do ourselves. I will say, however, so far as bonuses are concerned, that the location of the fair in Forest Park will be worth more in admission fees before the gates are opened than all the bonuses offered by all the other sites put together."

"The official figures show that the paid admissions to the Chicago World's Fair grounds, almost isolated and without transportation facilities up to within a few months of the fair, were $1,800,000."

"With 100,000 persons visiting Forest Park each week for pleasure alone, and with its incomparable transportation facilities, ready in existence, fully half a million dollars should be taken at the gates before the show began."

"So far as Mr. Schweikhardt's contract for reference to the fair is concerned, I will say that he has signed an agreement to relinquish his contract, so far as it applies to the west end of the park, on condition that he be allowed to move the cottage, which is on the site, and that a highway be located on the east side of the fair grounds."

President Kingsland of the St. Louis Manufacturers' Association Says the End of the Long Fight
Now Seems Near.

Mr. L. D. Kingsland, president of the St. Louis Manufacturers' Association, said to the Post-Dispatch Thursday:

"The indications point to the abolition of the bridge arbitrary within the year 1901."

"The railroads, acting voluntarily, are expected to be the means of bringing about the condition for which every St. Louis business man has hoped so long."

"They realize that their interests are identical with those of the city and that whatever will help St. Louis will help them."

"They know that the necessities of St. Louis trade demand that the bridge arbitrary shall be removed."

"They have the interests of the city at heart to move to East St. Louis was the only obstacle to St. Louis' trade."

"The loss to the bridge company in the absorption of the usual charges in the bills of lading, thus distorting the market, is a different railroad cost instead of assessing all of it against St. Louis."

"The St. Louis Manufacturers' Association has been at work on this plan for five years, and there is every reason to believe that success will soon crown its efforts."

"If the railroads have manifested a spirit of fairness in the negotiations and we expect great things from them."

Will Not Move
From St. Louis Now.

So strong is the belief in business and manufacturing circles that the arbitrary is to be lifted that several firms that expected recently that they expected to move to East St. Louis on account of this obstacle have decided to remain in St. Louis, if this action is taken.

"They have accordingly postponed their removal indefinitely."

Among the firms that were reported as about to move to East St. Louis was the American Insulating Material Manufacturing Association, which has its headquarters at 1001 Market street, Mr. F. K. Sawyer, its general manager, who is also an active member of the Manufacturers' Association, said to the Post-Dispatch Thursday:

"We have never had any intention of going to East St. Louis, so that the rumor that the bridge arbitrary is to be lifted could not have had any part in our remaining here."

"But I know of several firms that have been very flattered by offers from East St. Louis to move and have been waiting for assurance that the arbitrary was to be lifted. They will remain in St. Louis if that is done."

No Sacrifice
on Part of Railroads.

"There would not be any sacrifice on the part of the railroads in lifting the bridge arbitrary. It is unquestionably their interest."

"In the first place the charges can be distributed in the traffic bills. In the second place, an increase of business will more than compensate for the loss."

"I am not familiar with the status of the negotiations between the St. Louis Manufacturers' Association and the railroads, but the manufacturers of the city believe they will terminate successfully."

HER GRAY EYES GLITTERED

WATCHED JURY AS HER SHAME
WAS EXPOSED.The Woman Is Confident of Acquittal and Has Not a Mite of Remorse for Killing Her Husband.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 6.—"Conspiracy to murder, fear of exposure of a woman's shame furnishing the motive," that is the line of the prosecution against Mrs. Lulu Kennedy, on trial for killing her husband.

In his address to the jury prosecuting Attorney Hadley made this plain, so plain that the steel-gray of Mrs. Kennedy's eyes glittered as their glances shifted from the face of the lawyer to the faces of the jurors.

Minutely the woman noticed the effect of this disclosure upon the minds of the men who hold her fate in their keeping.

"I will state," said Mr. Hadley, "that Philip Kennedy was murdered as a result of a conspiracy between Mrs. Lulu Kennedy, Bert, C. W. and Will Prince were the actors. Along in 1900 there came to Kansas City a baseball player named Case Prince who formed the acquaintance of Lulu Prince. Their relations became intimate. In October, 1900, Prince left town hurriedly. Mrs. Prince went to Dr. Cross and stated that she was in a serious condition and asked to have treatment, saying that she was the wife of Case Prince."

"On the morning of Dec. 4 Philip Kennedy went to the office of C. H. Nearing to a business message, and as he stepped out in the hallway, he was surprised to find Case Prince standing before him. He was killed by Mr. Prince. Kennedy said she would have to be killed, as she was no reason why he should marry her, as he was already engaged to be married. He left the office of Mr. Nearing, and as he stepped out in the hallway, he was surprised to find Case Prince standing before him. He was killed by Mr. Prince. PRICE DEERED FIVE MILLIONS

The Moore Brothers Now Control the Rock Island.

THEIR REMARKABLE CAREER

THE COUNTRY WAS STARTLED IN AUGUST, 1896, BY FAILURE.

They began to retrieve by forming Half a Dozen or More Trusts and Are Now Multi-Millionaires.

Special to the Post-Dispatch. CHICAGO, June 6.—The Moore Bros. have secured control of the Rock Island Railroad. Ex-Judge Moore has been elected a director in place of Henry M. Flagler of the Standard Oil Co. and H. A. Parker, a Moore man, succeeds Daniel G. Reid as a director.

An issue of $10,000,000 in stock has been authorized and when received will be extended from Liberal, Kan., to El Paso, Tex. Five million dollars in debt five years ago and today in control of the $60,000,000 capital of the Rock Island is the story of the wonderful rise to power in the financial world of the Moore Bros.

The country was startled on Aug. 3, 1896, by the failure of the Rock Island. The fall was the result of an effort to put up the price of Diamond Match stock. When books were balanced they were in debt $5,000,000.

Such a handicap did not discourage them in the race for wealth. Instantly they went to work to repair their shattered fortunes. The organization of the trust was their first success, and was followed by the formation of the American Strawboard Co. and the triple trust. Then they got into National Steel.

In the meantime all their debts were paid dollar for dollar and a little more than a year ago ex-Judge Moore established his headquarters in New York. At that time he and his brother were said to be worth $10,000,000.

Several months ago, when Rock Island was selling at 110, the Moore Bros. began to buy it. The price rose gradually to 125 and then the public took hold and boomed it to 175. All the time the Moores kept adding to their holdings, and at the annual meeting held yesterday in Chicago it was demonstrated that they were the strongest interests in the road.

WITH THE PROPHETS

He couldn't see a plane or saw He wasn't good at adding. He couldn't get a job of work, And so he took to fadding.

He is the greatest fakir in America because he has made $5,000,000 in eight years through his fakery, and 20,000 men and women stand by him and say he is right. He reviles constituted authority, and 20,000 men and women applaud. He has 1,000,000 enemies in a great city, but he defies them all. He is brave as a lion and dauntless as a cur. His courage is moral and his cowardice is physical. He assails the good names of men in high places, yet he fears the assassin. In free America he goes about with a body guard to keep men from killing him. He is loved and hated. Some would make of him a god and others would rid the world of him and they would stamp out a pest. All the while he struts and cavorts and makes money. He has not the Hindu fakir beat a city block.

This man, who is one-third nerve, one-third wit and the other third crack, will be described and pictured in the Sunday Post-Dispatch. He is the only one of his kind. His bank book shows that he has a good start. His finish is a matter of conjecture. His past and present, and perhaps a glimpse of the future, will be found in this story in the best of Sunday magazines.

The horse has passed—just saw one go up Olive street—but when are they going to put rubber tires on the trolley cars? Please don't laugh. It's not to be done any time. Edison's brain motor have worked out. His latest invention will bring the automobile within everybody's reach or pretty near everybody's. There may be a few persons left who will have to ride on street cars, but even that will be a luxury. Edison would do away with car tracks in the cities and fix things so that the cars would run on wheels. If his invention is applied the airship will become an established fact. Citizens of St. Louis may yet be equaled with wings so that they may fly from one world's fair site to another. The first authorized statement about this latest greatest of recent discoveries will be published only in the Sunday Post-Dispatch.

Are you a skilled tradesman anxious to make money by the sweat of your brow and willing to go where fortune calls? If so, you will want to learn of the fortune which may await you in one of the garden spots of the world where millions of persons are ready to welcome the American artisan. The best of the best of the world's trade is in the very one which will be most appreciated there. For further information see the beautiful illustrated pages of the Sunday Post-Dispatch.

The cow is not what she used to be. She has fallen into the hands of the scientists, and nowadays she is a creature of formulas. Modern methods have made a new cow out of her. Read the story of the milkmaid in the Sunday Post-Dispatch.

The story of Alice Bronson, the plain little girl who wanted to be a lady, will be continued. Miss Bronson fell into good hands when she selected the Earl of Yarmouth and Harriet Hubbard Ayer as her tutors. She is now approaching the mysteries of the dinner table and she has learned a whole lot.

A wonderful woman conquered half the world with her beauty and the other half with an accomplishment of the like of which was never achieved by any other human being. She is 60 years old and still young. Those who know her say she looks like a woman of 25. She has divulged the secret of her youth. It is yours if you buy the Sunday Post-Dispatch.

Mohammed was forced to go to the mountain because it would not come to him. In this first year of the twentieth century he has to command the mountain and it will come to you, even though you be no prophet.

That is the new cure for consumption—mountain air manufactured at the level of the sea. No more long trips to the mountains, no more disappointments at the end of the journey, no more expense. The cure is at hand and it will be described for the first time in the Sunday Post-Dispatch.

Call for Mississippi Bonds. JACKSON, Miss., June 6.—A proclamation issued by Gov. Longino calls in $400,000 worth of Mississippi 4 per cent bonds by the 1st day of July, and holders are notified that interest will stop on that date. These bonds have five years more to run, but it is optional with the state to take them up after five years from date of issue, thus saving one-fourth the interest.

SHOCKED BY LIGHTNING WHILE WATCHING STORM

IN HER OWN HOME

East St. Louis Young Woman Has Been Unconscious Since Tuesday Evening Despite Physicians' Valiant Efforts.

Miss Della Scherr, 24 years old, of 1324 Gaty avenue, East St. Louis, has been unconscious 40 hours from the effects of an electrical shock during a storm Tuesday evening.

A consultation of the city's leading physicians was held Wednesday afternoon. There is but little hope for her recovery unless she rallies within the next twelve hours.

Miss Scherr is of a peculiarly nervous temperament and has always feared thunder storms.

She lives with her sister, Mrs. Henry Schwab, whose husband is employed as foreman at Helm's brewery.

Tuesday evening, while Miss Scherr was clearing the table of the supper dishes there was a vivid flash of lightning, followed by a sharp clap of thunder.

A ball of fire shot by the window near which she was standing. Miss Scherr screamed and swooned. Dr. G. M. West, residing in the same block, was called and worked over the young woman all night without reviving her.

He administered powerful heart stimulants to keep her alive. Wednesday morning she seemed to be sinking and Dr. West summoned other medical men in consultation. They pronounced it one of the most peculiar cases that had ever come under their observation.

Wednesday afternoon Miss Scherr opened her eyes and seeing Mr. Schwab standing at her bedside, said: "Is that you, Henry?" after which she sank into a comatose condition from which all efforts to arouse her have thus far been futile.

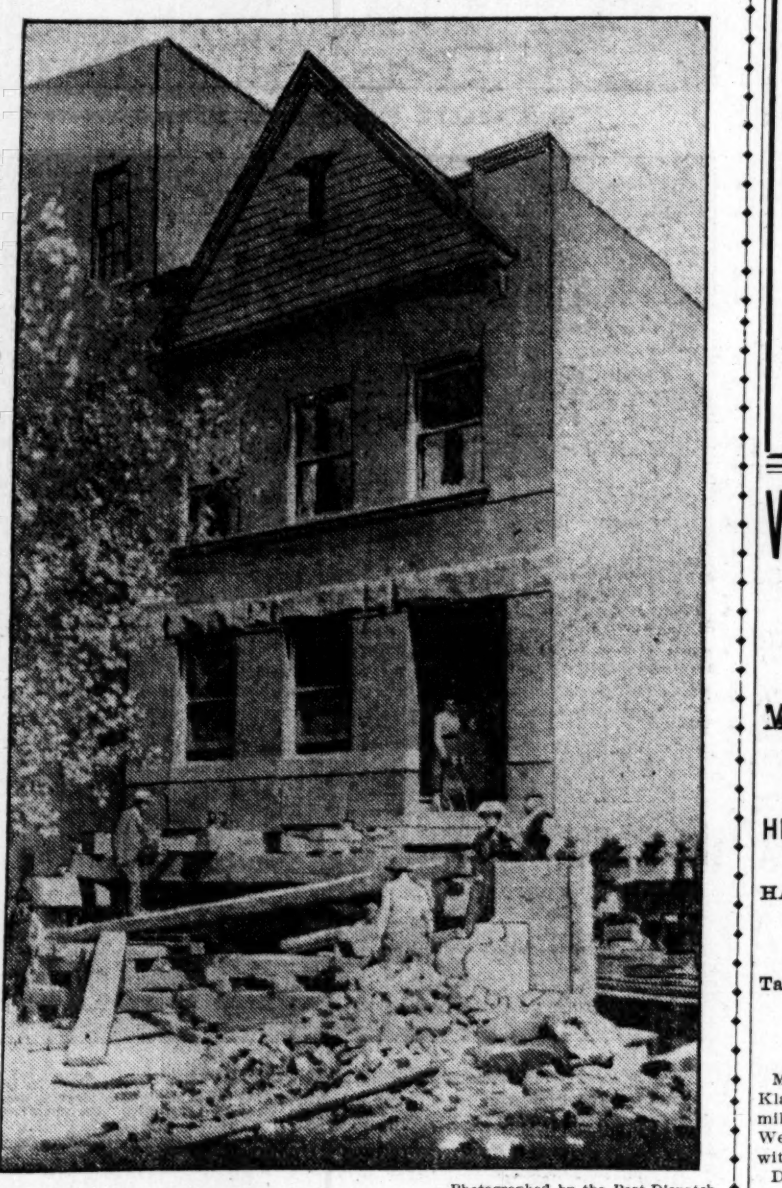

There are no marks on her person that indicate she was struck.

POST-DISPATCH CAMERA STORIES OF ST. LOUIS

MOVING TWO NORTH ST. LOUIS HOMES.

Mr. H. A. Hannibal and Mr. J. Prelwitz with their families are living in this brick house at 1113 North Market street while it is being jacked up on stilts in order that it may be moved across the street. Moving day has no terror for Mrs. Hannibal and Mrs. Prelwitz, although they will be moving all this week. No carpets were taken up and all is moving at one time. Mr. C. Hansen, who is moving the building, has assured the women that he will roll the house across Twelfth street, turn it around and set it on the new foundations without shaking a single glass off their tables. Mr. Hansen says this will be the first house ever moved in Missouri on steel rollers in place of the logs commonly used. The steel roller is his own patent and is designed to move a brick house with less vibration than is caused by the old method. Four horses on the west end of the block are being torn down to make room for an addition to the Peters Shoe Co. factory.

TRAGIC SUICIDE AT AUSTIN

Divorced Woman, Deserted by Lover, Died in Her Former Husband's Presence.

Special to the Post-Dispatch. AUSTIN, Tex., June 6.—The tragic suicide of Mrs. Henry Hearne, age 27 years, in front of her home last night created a sensation here on account of the prominence of the family. Mrs. Hearne had only recently been divorced from her husband and was to have been married to an older man.

The wedding was scheduled for last night and her lover suddenly left the city. When Mrs. Hearne heard of this she drove in front of her home and a little later her divorced husband arrived. When she pulled a revolver from her breast and blew her brains out.

regardless of expense by Dr. J. J. Lawrence, as a home for his daughter. The house occupies a beautiful lawn fronting 200 feet on Westmoreland place, running through to Lindell avenue the same width, facing 200 feet on Lindell boulevard opposite Forest Park with a frontage of 400 feet on the west side of King's highway, and being one of the choicest locations in St. Louis.

The residence is erected on the Westmoreland place side. The title to the house is in the Minnie Lawrence Trust, estate, while the three additional lots were sold for the account of Dr. J. J. Lawrence. The Mercantile Trust Co. represented the purchaser, Mr. Campbell, in the negotiations, while McCormick-Kilgus-Rule were the agents of Dr. Lawrence. The death of Mrs. Sigrist paid for the property on the market, and several parties were figuring on purchasing the place. The price paid for the entire property was $125,000. It is understood that Mr. Campbell will shortly move into the residence, making it his future home.

MAY ABANDON AFRICANS.

Lutheran Synod Finds the Mission Is Not a Success.

DES MOINES, Io., June 6.—The Lutheran General Synod will adjourn tonight after a 10-day session, and the closing day was busy with many reports, including the decision board, Sunday-school, common service and temperance committees. No place for holding the next biennial has yet been chosen, although it was expected that the first Lutheran Church of Baltimore would extend an invitation, but this was not done on account of financial reasons. The question of missionary work in Africa was also brought up, and the committee's report submitted by Dr. George W. Miller of Baltimore to abandon the African continent altogether. Some opposition has arisen to this, but the committee reports that its assets are only a coffee field and graveyard which are all the board has to show for many years' work. The proposition is to abandon the African continent and devote the work to the negroes in this country.

Rev. E. J. Wolfe of Gettysburg, Pa., read a revised report on the condition of the church, which was adopted in place of the first one, which aroused such a commotion. The synod delegates will leave tonight for their homes.

WOMAN ENDED HER SUFFERING

Mrs. Klaus Hanged Herself With a Towel.

HER CHILD FOUND THE BODY

HAD BEEN IN POOR HEALTH FOR SEVERAL MONTHS.

Talked Cheerfully With Neighbor and Minutes Before She Committed the Deed.

Mrs. Charlotte Klaus, wife of Joseph Klaus, a well-to-do farmer living three miles west of Belleville, committed suicide Wednesday afternoon by hanging herself with a towel in the cellar of her home.

Dependency over ill health is the supposed cause for the act.

An hour before her body was found she was conversing cheerfully with Adam Harszczy, a neighbor, and told him about plans which she and her husband had made for the improvement of the farm.

After Mr. Harszczy had departed and Mr. Klaus had gone to the field to work, she went to the cellar, fastened a long towel to a rafter and made a noose in the other end.

Standing on a box she placed the noose about her neck and kicked the box from under her.

One of her children found her hanging in the cellar.

The child ran screaming from the house and told Mr. Harszczy, who was working near the house, that his mother was hanging.

He cut the towel and took down the body. Coroner McCracken held an inquest, the verdict being suicide.

The funeral will take place Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the residence to Walnut Hill Cemetery.

THE MERRY, MERRY CHORUS AT DELMAR, AS IT APPEARS TO THE BLOND GIRL

WHERE THEY SOON HOPE TO SHAKE SEALSkins.

They Are Not so Old as the "Knocker" Would Make You Believe, and They All Hope to Be Prima Donnas Some Day.

We're the ladies of the chorus, and so busy is our motion, that we win their hearts' devotion, quite completely!

We are jaded so trim and neatly, and so busy is our motion, that we win their hearts' devotion, quite completely!

BY THE BLOND CHORUS GIRL.

Well, here we are again, or the twenty-seventh season. That's what the chorus girls say, but I'd have you know that I'm a teen years of age myself, and the average age of the chorus girls in the opera company at Delmar is less than 20. Unless we went on the stage as Little Eva in "Uncle Tom's Cabin," we are not behind the footlights as long as the knocker says.

We are singing "The Wizard of the Nile." You know there is a song in this piece which runs "The Love, the Love." Now that would be very well in Boston, where the Harvard students fall in love and marry the chorus girls, but out here there's no such chance in the summer, for Washington University boys are all home for their vacation. Still, there are compensations. St. Louis is full of gilded youths with Pierp Morgan papers and they frequent the summer gardens. The boys here think chorus girls are real nice. So we are. We are nice when nicely entertained. Why, I haven't been here 20 minutes when a millionaire's son made goo-goo eyes at me. I told him I would never speak to him if he did that goo-goo again. He said he'd be good, but wouldn't I join him in a little lunch?

Well, you know what I said to that. We went and sat down at a dinky little table named Forrest or something of that sort, and where all the waiters are German. Not a Frenchman or a coon to be seen. They brought me a menu card as big as a two-shoot. Photograph of Lillian Russell. It had everything on it from soup to cigarettes. Say, we ate for one hour and fifty-eight minutes by the watch a New York dude gave me when he was dead gone. My St. Louis friend put out a roll that looked like property and paid $6.66. "Keep the change," he said to the waiter. Wouldn't that stir your equilibrium?

We were rehearsing for "The Wizard of the Nile" when the photographer stepped in as we went outside and lined up against the walls of Jericho, or Cairo, or something to get a local-color background and plenty of sunlight on our curves, we were still singing: "The Love, the Love!"

O, I know we're in for a jolly time here. If the weather warms up, we'll play in the regular costumes, instead of in sealskin sacks and beardskin coats.

There are 25 chorus girls in the company, and we are all experienced singers. Now, don't imagine that we are samples of the oldest inhabitants for, as I told you before, we are only gushing girls.

Mr. Richard Spamer, the press agent, says many nice things about us, which are all deserved. Why, we have played in New York, Boston, Cincinnati, Oshkosh and even Chicago.

Of course our names are "out on the program." Like Helen Bertie, a big type; but we are there, just back of the fringe line, for without the chorus girls to give an opera glamour and go it would be a hollow mockery. I had a fellow tell me once that he didn't like the stars he went to see and hear, but the future prima donnas warbling along on $5 per week.

Next week Mr. Morris' company will produce a new local-color background and plenty of living pictures, among them a reproduction of Hatcher's famous painting, "The Cave of Sin."

Uhrig's Cave, with Maude Lillian Berri and Frank Moulan as dual operatic magnets, has already settled down to do antics for the summer season. Big audiences have been on hand nightly to enjoy the clever rendering of "The Merry Monarch." Even on Tuesday night the storm failed to keep away a devoted band of music-lovers from Manager McNeary's garden. The afternoon performance Saturday will be "Berri Welcomes Mary" and every lady present will carry away as a memento an autograph photograph of Miss Berri.

At Grand Avenue Park Maurice Freeman and his company have been doing a fair business this week. The electrical display at the park is one of the features. It is one of the most popular of the al fresco resorts.

In the 20-minute sketch at Mannion Park this week, Davenport, Burke and Sawyer are giving a complete vaudeville show in condensed form. The range of their performance includes acrobatics, an instrumental musical act, a comedy turn, singing and dancing, a monologue, and grotesque tumbling. It is certainly a versatile exhibition.

For the first time since the season opened at the Suburban, Prof. Spyer's orchestra appeared this week in their shirt waist uniforms.

The Hanley-Ravold stock company is pleasing good audiences at Koerner's Garden this week.

Eclipse Park has a strong offering in "The Octopus" this week. A. J. Louis, a giving a careful interpretation of Zola, Miss Madeline Hunt, the clever sourette of the company, has become a favorite with the patrons. Walwin Woods, under whose direction the playhouse produced, gives a forcible performance. Scudder in preparation for next week, is a western comedy drama, entitled "The Mountain Meadow Mystery."

At Uhrig's Cave the opera to be sung next week will be "The Bohemian Girl." It has been twice produced "The Grand Duchess," while "The Bohemian Girl" was to be put on later. The exigencies of the summer garden business, however, have brought about the change.

JOLIET DOWN TO ALTON.

Steamboat En Route to St. Louis From Chicago Via Drainage Canal.

The steamer Joliet, which left Chicago Monday for St. Louis by way of the Illinois river and the Drainage Canal, arrived at Alton at 11 o'clock and left immediately for St. Louis.

The boat is expected to arrive in St. Louis Thursday afternoon.

The trustees will be guests at the Planters' Hotel until Friday when they will return to Chicago.

DELABAR CASE SUBMITTED

Attorney Lehmann Contended That Excise Commissioner Seibert Acted Within the Law.

Judge Zachritz heard the arguments of the attorneys Thursday morning in the certiorari proceedings of August Delabar, saloonkeeper at 200 South Broadway, against Excise Commissioner J. M. Seibert, brought to have the record of the proceedings leading up to the revocation of Delabar's license laid before the circuit court.

Charles Fensky and T. C. Eggers represented Delabar. F. W. Lehmann represented the excise commissioner. Judge Zachritz took the case under advisement.

It was brought to test the validity of the excise commissioner's order closing all saloons between the hours of 1 and 5 a. m. under penalty of a revocation of their license on the ground that they were disorderly places.

Chammon ex parte, declared he is that saloons kept open during the early morning hours are disorderly. If Delabar's place is an exception to the common experience, according to Mr. Lehmann, it rested with Delabar to prove that. He said there was no contention in Delabar's petition that his place was orderly.

Saloons and gambling, said Mr. Lehmann, are merely legalized evils. The statutes provided officers who should regulate them, bestowing upon such officers discretionary powers as to the granting of licenses for saloons and gambling.

It was merely a question as to whether Delabar's saloon was an exception to common experience and order, and it rested with Delabar to prove this, as he made no attempt to do either before the commissioner or when summoned, or in his petition to the Circuit Court.

BALDWIN STILL IN QUINCY.

Arctic Explorer Is Delayed in Trip to St. Louis.

Arctic Explorer Evelyn B. Baldwin did not arrive in St. Louis Thursday morning, as some of his friends expected. A dispatch from Quincy, Ill., where the explorer has been visiting relatives, says he is still there, waiting for a steamer to take him to St. Louis.

CLIMBED OVER THE CARS.

Boys Claimed Freight Trains Blocked the Street.

Superintendent William Hales of the Charter Oak Range Co. at 1400 North Main street, defended Thomas Burkhardt and Eddie Stattel, two of his employees who were charged with trespassing on moving freight cars in the Dayton street police court Thursday morning.

The boys were prevented from crossing the street by the cars and simply tried to climb over them, said Mr. Hales. "Our employees are frequently annoyed by long lines of freight cars that stop across the streets leading to our works," he said.

For the first time since the season opened at the Suburban, Prof. Spyer's orchestra appeared this week in their shirt waist uniforms.

The Hanley-Ravold stock company is pleasing good audiences at Koerner's Garden this week.

SUNDAY POST-DISPATCH.

MRS. ELIZABETH SMITH DEAD.

End Came in California, Whither She Went for Health.

Mrs. Elizabeth C. Smith of 4243 Washington boulevard died suddenly at Las Vegas, N. M., at noon Wednesday.

Mrs. Smith was the wife of F. Huntington Smith, a prominent lumberman of St. Louis. She was apparently in the best of health until a few months ago, when she contracted a cold.

Her condition gradually grew worse, and as a last resort, her physicians advised a trip to New Mexico.

She went to Las Vegas where her cold rapidly developed into consumption, which caused her death.

Mrs. Smith was 38 years old, and leaves three children: Jessie J., aged 17 years; Ella, aged 12; and Max, aged 15, who is attending the Bleeck Military Academy. The family is at its summer home, Woodland, near Jennings Station, Mo.

She was expected to arrive in St. Louis Friday evening and will be buried in the family lot at Bellefontaine Cemetery. The funeral arrangements have not yet been made.

Searching for Her Husband.—Mrs. Kate Shant of 233 North Whittier street has asked the police to assist her in locating her husband, Charles Shant, who left home on April 21 and has not since been heard from. He said that he was going to Illinois to search for work. He is 51 years old and a craftsman.

Found Girl Baby.—James Cashington of 223 St. Charles street, while passing St. Louis Hospital at Twenty-third and Locust streets at 1:30 o'clock Thursday morning, discovered a girl baby, about 4 days old, on the house of doctor. The infant was taken to St. Anne's Asylum.

GEORGE B. WARFEL IS DEAD.

He Was Assistant General Passenger Agent of the B. & O.

News was received at the local offices of the Baltimore and Ohio Southwestern Railway Thursday morning of the death at Danville, Ill., Wednesday night of George B. Warfel, assistant general passenger agent of that system, with headquarters in St. Louis.

Mr. Warfel had been at the home of his sister, Mrs. A. S. Markley, in Danville, Ill., for several months, suffering from stomach trouble, and his associates in St. Louis were not aware that his illness was serious.

Mr. Warfel was one of the most widely known of the St. Louis passenger men. He was about 40 years of age and had been connected with the B. & O. system for about 15 years. He began as a traveling passenger agent, and, for the past five years, was assistant general passenger agent.

His funeral will take place in Danville Friday afternoon and will be largely attended by St. Louis railway men. Mr. Warfel was unmarried. His mother is still living, her home being in Wisconsin. He was born in Danville.

STAMP CLERK INJURED.

Struck by a Wagon at Jefferson Avenue and Olive Street.

James C. Ward of 2733 Madison street stamp clerk at the postoffice, was run down by a wagon Thursday morning at Jefferson avenue and Olive street and was taken to the City Hospital in an unconscious condition.

An examination showed that he had been stunned, but was not otherwise injured. He was sent to his home. Ward had alighted from the Jefferson avenue car and was hurrying to make connection with the Olive street car going toward the postoffice, when he was struck by the horse of a wagon that was driven rapidly away after the accident.

KLEIN'S CASE IS NOT ENDED.

Judge Spencer Will Give Police Board Divorce Evidence.

Judge Spencer announced Wednesday afternoon that he should lay the evidence in the divorce suit of Patrolman Timothy J. Klein against Pauline L. Klein before the Board of Police Commissioners.

Mrs. Klein was granted a divorce, with $1000 alimony. Klein himself did not appear in court. His deposition was taken and presented to the court. It is this, supplemented by the depositions of other witnesses, that Judge Spencer said he should lay before the Board of Police Commissioners.

CHICAGO, June 6.—In the death of Edward Kimball the church world loses a worker whose good deeds will live always.
It was Edward Kimball who converted Dwight L. Moody in the old Mount Vernon church in Boston and who raised more money to pay off church debts than any other religious worker in the world.

Unordained, without special preparation, but with all the enthusiasm inspired by religion, Edward Kimball made his influence felt from one end of the United States to the other. In two Sundays he raised a debt of $110,000 on Dr. Robinson's Presbyterian church in New York. It was said of him that no matter how great the need he gave up their money to other causes, he could make them do it with a smile for the church.

He was 78 years old, but had retained remarkably good health until very recently.
He suffered no organic ailment and was mercifully spared the tortures of disease.
It was a case of serene, painless dissolution, due to old age.

Mr. Kimball did not find his real life work until 1871. In that year he visited San Francisco. While there he filled the pulpit of the Westminster mission on Sundays. He found the church overwhelmed with debt. His eloquence gathered the people together in large crowds and he raised enough by voluntary contributions to clear off the mortgage against the property.

When he saw the beneficial results of his work he determined to throw aside all other occupations and devote himself to raising the churches from their financial burdens.
He was wonderfully successful.

In Chicago he was instrumental in raising the debts on Dr. Lorimer's Baptist Church, the Lincoln Park Congregational Church, the Union Park Congregational Church and many others.

In San Francisco the First Congregational Church, the First Presbyterian Church, the Howard Presbyterian Church, the First Congregational Church of Oakland and others owe their present prosperity largely to his efforts.

In Portland, Tacoma, Denver, New York, Boston, Philadelphia, Newark and even to the confines of Nova Scotia his work was extended. Only by sickness was he compelled to abandon it.

No denomination or creed was favored.
Methodists, Presbyterians, Baptists, Congregationalists were all his friends. Kimball's eloquence and great energy were always at their service.

Mr. Kimball passed a useful and eventful life. He was born in Rowley, Mass., July 28, 1823. He received a common school education and studied in the local academies. His parents had intended he should study for the ministry, but when he was at that time prevented it. He succeeded his father, a New Englander, as teacher in one of the local schools, but when 22 years old went to Boston and engaged in the carpet business. He had the distinction of being the first traveling man in the United States to handle carpets outside of the local territory. Afterward he became head of the firm of Kimball, Felt & Wentworth.

While living in Boston he was an officer of the Mount Vernon Congregational Church and taught in the Sunday school.
One of his brightest pupils was Dwight L.
Moody, and Mr. Kimball was the means of his conversion. In the life of Mr. Moody, published by Rev. Henry P. Williams, whose incident is mentioned, and the great revivalist acknowledges his debt to his old teacher.

From 1868 to 1872 Mr. Kimball was engaged in the wholesale hardware and cutlery business in New York. He came to Chicago after the fire and was employed with the A. H. Andrews Company for six years.

In 1873 he abandoned business entirely and devoted himself to church work. Since then he had raised over $15,000,000 among the different denominations to pay off church mortgages and other debts. Probably no other man was so well known in church circles in America as Mr. Kimball.

He was twice married. His first wife was Emma Jane Fincham, daughter of Dr.
Daniel Fincham, an old resident physician and chemist of Boston, whom he wedded Feb. 14, 1850.

He had four children, three of whom are now living—Dr. R. H. Kimball, Edward H. Kimball and Mrs. Henry P. Williams, whose husband is an old Chicago newspaper man.
His second wife was Miss Laura Harris of Brooklyn.

Mr. Kimball spent last year at Clinton Springs Sanitarium. In December he took to his bed.

The great success of his life was owing largely to Mr. Kimball's wonderful energy and his natural gift of eloquence. He stood over 6 feet high and impressed his hearers been wonderful.

OPPOSES DISFRANCHISEMENT

Congressman Livingston Fears the States May Reopen the Issues of the Civil War.

WASHINGTON, June 6.—Congressman
Livingston of Georgia says that he does not believe in wholesale disfranchisement as a remedy for the evils of negro suffrage. He said:

"I think the people of Georgia are against any disfranchisement amendments to our constitution. We are getting along nicely with the negro in Georgia. The states which adopt the amendments which have been already adopted by Louisiana, Mississippi, North and South Carolina, may see the time when Congress will take the matter up with a view to affecting their representation in Congress. If the members of the states of Louisiana, Mississippi, North Carolina, South Carolina, reduced to turnout and strife and reopen the issues
of the Civil War.

If I don't think it is best for the southern states to adopt such constitutional amendments. The number of negroes in our state is not so large as it was formerly.
"Very many of them are moving away where agriculture and industry are better than they are in Georgia."

MR. CHOATE ON DANTE.

American Ambassador Took Part in a London Literary Carnival.

LONDON, June 6.—A high literary carnival was held by the Dante Society which closed with an address by Ambassador Choate. Mrs. Craigie delivered a lecture on Dante and Botticelli, and the American ambassador introduced her. She appeared before a large audience and read a short paper in which she addressed the Dante club and the Dante Society. The poet and the painter were connected with literary art.
When Mrs. Craigie had closed, Ambassador Choate reverted to his experiences at Harvard when he was a pupil of Longfellow and there was an ideal Dante Society at Boston. It consisted of three members, Longfellow, Lowell and Norton. He also referred to the present objective aid in literary devotion to the Italian master, and excited the envy of the members by describing the splendid Dante library which had been collected at Cornell University.

AFFECTS THE IRON TRADE.
The Strike Is a Feature That Is Reducing Consumption.
CLEVELAND, June 6.—Surface indications in the iron trade continue to point to easier conditions, says the Iron Trade Review this week. "That there is likely to be an early resumption of buying, appears strongly to those who look for a continuance of the present basis and this view is reinforced by the persistently heavy consumption. The two questions come up in attempting to judge whether the present rate will continue; the effect of the machinists' strike and the trade of the year's crop. In certain localities the strike has cut down consumption, though the curtailment is not a large percentage of the material entering foundries and machine shops. There are signs that in these spots the struggle may be drawn out, with possibilities of extensions through sympathy strikes. "Thus far the molders have kept at work, and the iron trade has become a machine shop, but the machine shops have been shut down, and at the moment there is less trouble in the iron trade than there was a few weeks ago. The crop factor has become more prominent in the work through the publication of a favorable report. "In pig iron the weaker tendency heretofore noted continues. The principal transaction of the week was the purchase of 50,000 tons of Bessemer iron from central western furnaces for shipment to a Colorado steel works. The bulk of the iron went to central and southern Ohio producers. In these valleys the iron trade is practically at a standstill, pending the placing of contracts by the United States Steel Corporation for its supply in the second quarter. "This buying, when it comes, may give the whole market such an impulse as was felt in February when the merchant furnaces in the valley took on so large a tonnage."

REPORTED AT WEST POINT.
Fifty-Six Cadets, Many From the West, Ready for Examination.
WEST POINT, June 6.—Fifty-six of the fifty-nine young men who were appointed cadets to the Military Academy since March 1 reported for their entrance examinations Wednesday. Private Calvin F. Titus, made famous by scaling the wall at Pekin, has said July 5 to present himself for examination.

The appointees include the following: L. S. Arnold, Arkansas; J. J. Brewer, Illinois; E. S. Curtis, Missouri; F. A. Gargas, Nevada; E. M. Gibson, Iowa; C. E. Grove, Colorado; T. H. Lowe, Missouri; C. G. Lucy, Texas; John Lund, Iowa; E. J. Macgregor, Illinois; J. E. Starkey, Illinois; R. Talbot, Jr., Colorado; E. F. Vasth, Missouri.

CARNEGIE AND PETER COOPER.
Owing to Former Friendship the Former Will Aid Cooper Union.
NEW YORK, June 6.—That Andrew Carnegie has become a member of Cooper Union, and that he is to do something for the great philanthropy, was the news at the forty-second annual commencement of the institute last night. "I have not seen any announcement of it in the newspapers," said Mr. Hewitt, "but it is a fact, nevertheless. What he will do to carry on the educational plans of the institute will be made known shortly. "Both Peter Cooper established this place as air to the masses. His means, however, were not adequate for him whole to carry out his scheme, and his donations of Mr. Carnegie will help to fill his ideas materially. Mr. Carnegie and Peter Cooper were friends and Mr. Carnegie will help the development of Peter Cooper philanthropy."

LIFE SAVING FENDERS.

President Phillips of the Board of Public Improvements is quoted as declaring his intention to enforce the fender ordinance requiring the street railways to equip all cars with approved life saving fenders.

Coupled with Judge Wood's charge to the grand jury the purpose of President Phillips marks a victory for public sentiment persistently expressed through the Post-Dispatch for the protection of life and limb in the streets.

The fender ordinance has never been properly enforced. Only one system—the Scullin line—adopted an approved life-saving fender and on these cars part of the equipment, the wheel guard, was omitted. The record of these approved fenders even without the complete equipment is excellent and in marked contrast with the makeshift contrivances on other lines.

The report of the Baltimore fender commission published previous to the adoption of the St. Louis ordinance is an excellent guide in the selection of fenders. It records the results of careful investigation and specifies the equipment most efficient in the saving of life.

The present members of the Board of Public Improvements would do well to give careful consideration to the fender question and give effect to their conclusions in the enforcement of the law. Their labor would be amply repaid in the saving of lives and limbs.

"The Mayor's 'get together' platform is the platform on which all St. Louis ought to stand. It means new St. Louis in the fullest sense."

AN ALL-WOMAN MINISTRY.

Hugo Munsterberg, a German professor, writing in the International Monthly for June, says that in thirty years from now, judging by recent history, the Protestant ministry will be a female ministry, nearly every pulpit being occupied by a woman. He makes this prediction because women have almost monopolized the public school teaching profession in the last thirty years, and asks where this is all to end.

Female preachers are increasing in number, but the conditions are not similar in the two professions of teaching and preaching. The teacher is paid by the city or state. The preacher, in the country, is paid by his congregation or his church. And, as Prof. Munsterberg says, in employing women almost exclusively to teach, the nation has given the education of its young "into the hands of the lowest bidder."

Although preachers as a whole are badly paid, there is still opportunity for men in the ministry. Women are not yet underbidding men for possession of the pulpit.

The Londoners, since the South African war began, have come to believe that no news is bad news.

INCLUDE THE PIGEON.

It was an oversight that the gentle and beautiful pigeon was not included in the latest providing for the protection of birds in Missouri. Hundreds of pigeons are being killed and maimed at the various local shooting matches, just to test the skill of marksmen, although the clay "pigeon" and other targets would answer the purpose.

At these matches, where these delicate and harmless birds are slaughtered wholesale, women and children look on, thereby inducing callousness of heart and disregard for life. The effect cannot but be deleterious to the public mind.

If we are to have an Audubon Society, it should make every effort, as one of its chief objects, to put a stop to this unnecessary brutality. It should set before itself the task of protecting all life of harmless bird or beast, not on the mere selfish plea of usefulness, but because it is degrading to destroy life needlessly.

Why are not pigeons as much entitled to protection as robins and thrushes? Whoever has had the privilege of holding a pigeon in the hand and noting its beauty and innocence will have no trouble in answering this question.

These live-bird shooting matches are barbarous and out of date as well as unnecessary.

The last of the volunteers is sailed from the Philippines, and we are still licking the unnecessary war stamps.

ABOUT NEW PEOPLE.

Have you arrived? Good. But are you correct? Arrival is important, necessary, in fact, but to be quite well satisfied you must be quite correct.

The caution is needed because of the large influx of "new people" following the season of prosperity.

To be quite correct you must know how properly to express contempt for "new people." You are new until you can do this.

When you see a woman in rich attire, shiny black dress, diamonds, and elaborate coiffure sweeping Olive street or Broadway in the middle of the afternoon don't say that she is new rich. If you make this mistake you are sure to give yourself away. That girl wearing the big hat who seems to be having a good time at the restaurant table—she is new, no doubt, but don't say so until you know how. Again, don't be in a hurry to "plain" that society is "so mixed—so many new people, you know." Wait awhile until the memory of certain origins have passed away.

And—don't forget this: When you send a notice of that "function" at your house to the newspapers for publication next Sunday, don't say that "a few members of the most exclusive circles, etc., etc." Nothing could be newer.

After a little practice on these preliminary exercises you may make a guarded remark now and then about new people. It must be very guarded at first; until you learn how, you are not safe.

The time required to achieve correctness is longer or shorter, according to natural aptitude, and when you become quite correct, you can go on, if you like, a bit further. You will learn that newness and oldness, after all, are of only superficial importance, and that the best is to be natural, unaffected, modest and kindly. When you reach this point, you will have arrived indeed, but you won't think of it nor care for it.

The World's Fair, impetus is felt in East St. Louis as well as on this side of the river. All Illinois will be benefited by the great Exposition.

THERE IS WAR IN THE PHILIPPINES.

Attorney-General Knox advises the President to withhold his proclamation of peace in the Philippines and hold that a state of war continues in the archipelago.

According to the Supreme Court decision, the President cannot levy a tax or collect customs duties in "our colonies" in time of peace. But he can do what he pleases in time of war.

No doubt President McKinley is not very well satisfied. But there is no bargaining with party necessity; the peace, which he has boasted of so complacently as a triumph of his policy, must be converted into a war by construction of law.

All this is done to keep the President of the United States countenance while he governs without the consent of the governed, and taxes a people not represented in his councils. A cunning lawyer's wit takes the starch out of the political principles the American people have loved so well.

Whipping the devil around the stump is never a dignified proceeding. It is actually mortifying when the chief magistrate of a great nation is compelled, by the necessities of an occasion created by himself, to play that game.

With a Carnegie library in Jefferson City, Missouri statesmen will have a fountain of learning to draw from in the leisure hours of the session. May we not look for great results from Mr. Carnegie's gift to Missouri's capital?

CATCH THE LIGHTNING.

In the electrical storm Tuesday evening nearly a dozen buildings in St. Louis were struck, some of which were seriously damaged. Every serious storm in the hot weather results in similar accidents, frequently with loss of life. And all this happens more than 150 years since Benjamin Franklin showed that lightning was nothing but untrapped electricity.

Several years ago an English scientist named Crose caught the lightning which wandered over his country place and made it do useful work. He erected poles on a number of tall trees surrounding his estate, topped them with lightning rods, and by wires conducted the captured electricity into his factory, filling batteries of Leyden jars, with which he performed all sorts of curious and useful experiments.

Why can't we do as Mr. Crose did, on a large scale, protecting our cities from the danger of bombardment by "heaven's artillery"? The powers of nature are awaiting man's control. In every case in which he has exercised that control they have become obedient servants. Why not catch the lightning and set it to work?

If ever a people deserved a strong ally the Boers deserve one. Yet there is not a nation on earth, republic or monarchy, to go to their assistance.

FAKIRS' DUPES.

Dowie says he is the reincarnation of the prophet Elijah. What next? The credulous world is waiting for a bigger fakir. It doesn't matter much what his game may be he will find somebody who will believe him. The golden calf was the first fake show. There have been others ever since. They are irresistible. No proposition is too unreasonable for the fakir to advance. He is sure of an appreciative audience. Can any good come out of this fakery? It is inadvisable to believe in him and a pitfall to those who do. The destruction of the golden calf gave the followers of Aaron their first idea of the meaning of true divinity. A fakir is good for the body politic just as a caruncle is good for the body physical. He draws mental corruption to a head.

The greatest of all fakirs in the United States has made millions of dollars out of his fakery. He defies authority and makes his own laws. He has an army of followers behind him. An article in the next Sunday Post-Dispatch will tell all about this remarkable man whose capital is fakery.

REFLECTIONS OF A BACHELOR.

Every spring I ever saw was either late or early.

"My name is Brother Donkey," replied the other, "and I am the ruler of all Donkeys."

"I do not know that country," said Mr. Lion, "but I myself am a monarch, and the world to have around are the man who me for their king."

"If that is the case," said Brother Donkey, "we are brothers and we will continue our travels together."

"With the greatest pleasure," responded Mr. Lion, "one can only gain by being in good company."

So the two started on their journey together. As they went along, Mr. Lion thought he saw that Brother Donkey was not so formidable as he had at first appeared. There was something in his gait, something in his appearance, that led to this suspicion, and when he saw a tiger, he seemed to be so frightened that the King of the Donkeys could not best him in a fight.

"Come, my friend, and let us wrestle together for fun," said Brother Donkey.

"No, no, my comrade," exclaimed Brother Donkey, "for I am so strong that in spite of myself I should be compelled to crush you with my feet."

Mr. Lion, thinking this was true, made enough room to let Brother Donkey, and the two continued on their journey together. It so happened that they had to cross a river. With one bound Mr. Lion reached the other side, but, on the contrary, Brother Donkey went down into the water and began to swim in a very awkward manner, so awkward, indeed, that it seemed he was in danger of drowning.

"How is it," exclaimed Mr. Lion, in astonishment, "that you, who are so strong, are so weak?"

"What! I?" said Brother Donkey. "I split the water more rapidly than a boat, and the fishes themselves could not best me in a race."

"If that is true," said Mr. Lion, "why does it take you so long to cross a stream?"

"Ah," exclaimed Brother Donkey, "it was because I had caught with my tail an old large and heavy that I was about to sink, and I was compelled to turn it loose in order to regain my head."

Mr. Lion was satisfied with this answer, and the two friends resumed their journey. As they went along, Mr. Lion saw a high stone wall. Mr. Lion leaped over it at a bound, but Brother Donkey was unable to get over so quickly. He raised himself on his hind legs, placed his forefeet on the wall, and hung suspended there. Mr. Lion, seeing this, cried out:

"What are you doing there?"

HOW TO MAKE LIFE WORTH LIVING

PostDispatch Readers Give Comfort and Advice to One "Disappointed in Love."

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

It is rather difficult to prescribe a remedy for disappointment in love when the details of a case are unknown.

Perhaps our dear disappointed is nipping a rose in the bud. The following stanza may carry some consolation to her, as it has to many another:

Take it, dear love, the blood-red rose I send, Deep, deep within its heart there lies my kiss.

Take it, and press it to your lips, and say, "Renunciation crowns the ghost of bliss."

This is the end.

When crushed in trembling fragrant on your mouth, Across the warm sweet meeting, let no chill.

Creep in the sacrifice that spans our love, Whisper with me "Tis best for 'tis his will."

That it must end."

If this be your sentiment, can you find no solace in a beautiful friendship? No consolation in the art of making those near and dear to you happy?

St. Louis. A WELL-WISHER.

Have Hope and Courage.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

How many of us have been disappointed in love? I believe from experience that love comes once in a lifetime. I came from a distant city with my parents when a child to make St. Louis our home. I gave up to work, and at the place where I was employed I met the man I married.

He was many years older than I and was a family. My husband was cold, and the kindness and love I longed for I never received until a man came into my home like a snake. He pretended to be a friend of our family and loved me to distraction.

At first I repulsed him, but finally I gave him my love. It was the love of a lifetime. I had never known him. He was in my thoughts the last thing at night and the first thing in the morning. It was the love I should have given my husband had he been kind and affectionate.

Now my friend has left me to pull the thorns out of my heart one by one. He has wrecked my home, and now begins to pay his visits less frequently, but still I love him.

Sister, your disappointment is nothing compared to that of others. I too, must smile and entertain my friends when my heart is bleeding.

Nothing Takes Love's Place.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I do not agree with Miss Leroy, when she says that selfishness and unhappiness do not go hand in hand. Some of the most unhappy people in the world are very often the most selfish. The lady can see this for herself, if she will take the trouble to look about and see kind and generous people doing good unto others, but still with that patient and sad look in the eye that makes one feel they are in the presence of a very great sorrow.

No matter how hard she worked, or what she tried, could she forget the pure, sweet love of some dear heart? That kind of love comes but once in a lifetime, and remains forever.

When it is too late, all kind, generous and charitable acts can never bring back yesterday, or cause one to forget the human affection that can not be bought, sold or won. The real, genuine article can never turn to hatred. It is always love, no matter how hard we try to hide it.

It would be better for the disappointed one to try to regain the lost heart, and be happy—provided the heart is an honest one—than to try to forget and forget everything. Disappointed one asks for whole love, and kindly words, and actions of the past.

Remember we do not know the whole story. Disappointed one asks for whole love, and kindly words, and actions of the past.

Do not give her a stone. Beautiful books, love pictures, charity will not heal a broken heart, neither will a big St. Bernard dog answer.

POST DISPATCH SERIES

THE KING OF THE LIONS.

By Frederic Ortol.

"That I am weighing myself? I want to see if the part that is behind."

Brother Donkey, after great effort, at last succeeded in getting in over the wall. Mr. Lion then said to his companion:

"Powerful King of Donkeydom, my esteemed friend! I believe that you are making sport of me. Believe that your strength, at its best, is no greater than that of a child."

"If you have such a thought as that," said Brother Donkey, with a smile, "you make a serious mistake, great King of Beasts. Let us make a test of strength right here. Let us see which of us is able to destroy that great wall. The one that is victorious will be known as the King of the animals."

"This is a good idea," exclaimed Mr. Lion, heartily, "and I accept your conditions with pleasure."

Immediately Mr. Lion made an effort to show his power. He struck the wall with his nose, and then with his head. He struck it on the right and on the left, but he only wounded himself. He did not succeed in making a stone fall. At the end of a quarter of an hour he gave up in despair.

"I cannot make an impression on this strong stone wall," said Brother Donkey, "you will be more fortunate."

At once Brother Donkey began to bray and kick, and he used his heels with such effect that in a few minutes the wall was knocked down and destroyed.

"What do you think of this?" cried Brother Donkey. "Do you still think you are stronger than I am?"

"No," said Mr. Lion, humbly, "until today I had thought myself the king of animals, but I was mistaken, and the title belongs to you hereafter."

"But even yet," said Brother Donkey, "you do not know what I can do."

"Then," said Mr. Lion, "what can you do that is so extraordinary?"

"Well," replied Brother Donkey, "I can eat a horse."

"Thorns!" exclaimed Mr. Lion. "Do you really mean what you say?"

"Of course," said Brother Donkey, "I am telling you the simple truth."

"You would not dispute your word," said Mr. Lion, "but I am really anxious to see you perform this wonderful feat."

"I think you are the most extraordinary creature I ever saw, and I want you to be recognized as King of the Lions. Do you consent?"

"With pleasure," Brother Donkey replied. The next day, or shortly thereafter, a horse was brought to the lion's den. Brother Donkey was selected king without any opposition whatever. He was taken to them many years, and he was the better able to St. Louis stole Wednesday's game.

Padden, Heidrick and Donovan did the stealing.

St. Richard stole home, Emmett stole second and third in the same inning and Capt. Patsy stole second at one stage and virtually stole third and home at another.

Each of these thieving performances resulted in one of four runs that were enough to down New York and its mighty Matthewson.

It was the tallest exhibition of base running seen in St. Louis, the ancient fans declare, since the days when Comiskey, Latham, Curt Welch and Nichols in the habit of scoring from first on base hits for Chris Von der Ahe's four-time pennant winners.

Padden's performance was positively astounding. He ducked from third on a pitched ball that stuck squarely in Smith's glove three feet behind the plate. Had the divined his intentions, 5000 rooters would have shouted at him.

He sailed under the astonished Smith, 5000 rooters cheered as if each of them had just fallen from the sky.

That was in the fifth inning. A few minutes before, Padden turned the first of his two tricks. With two out, Capt. Patsy on the middle cushion and Padden near the inaugural corner, beautifully rounded the base.

Buelow juggled the hot drive, throwing the ball up in front of him. Capt. Patsy had to pass him to reach third. He figured Buelow would try to touch him instead of throwing to first.

Buelow attempted the flashy play of pulling the ball down out of the air and snapping it on the runner. He slipped against the captain's shoulder as Donovan went right in front of him like a lightning express.

But instead of sliding into the shoulder, the ball rolled off toward the grandstand and Padden's steal was complete. This play made Padden's steal possible.

In the following inning Heidrick acrobatically. He was presented with the first free transportation that Matthewson had dished out. On the first ball pitched he dashed for second. Smith's failure to catch him caused Capt. Patsy to catch the ball.

On the next ball Padden's steal was complete. He reached third and reached home safely. The crowd roared and the game was over.

Warner in then, but as Jack was in the grandstand sans uniform, no additional spectators were let in. Some of the crowd, however, had a few seconds later with a clean, white shirt and a captain's cap.
